December 7th - ConversationWorks on a personal basis: Questions that change lives and open opportunities in every conversation.

An introduction to a new listening style. This is not an add-on to 'how we engage in conversation', but a new approach to replace the small talk and social banter, that rarely goes below the surface. We'll be introduced to the tools, both hand-held and web-based and use them to engage with each other around themes or metaphors important to each person.

December 14th - ConversationWorks bring clarity, insight and collaboration

'Collaboration is the new black'. We will use ConversationWorks tools to explore issues and initiatives important to each participant. This is a shorter version of the Collaboration Board that Conversation Works offers monthly at the Union Club.

How often are you in a diverse group of strangers, where one gets to mention an issue to them, and the rest of the people in the group are solely focused on how they can help you resolve that? That's what [Collaboration Board] is to me
